

It is about you and you being able to influence your own day, make your own decisions and participate on your own premises. To be able to plan today's tasks is important. For those who feel challenged by not being able to relate to time and therefore having a problem with structuring the day, it may seem overly frustrating. Same applies if your memory fails you. There are a number of products that can open new opportunities regardless of cause, age and personal resources. This area is known, at Abilia, as the "Cognitive" area and includes solutions for many people with individual needs.

TIME, MEMORY AND PLANNING
